

Family Stabilization Services (FSS)

There is a program that can help MFIP and DWP families that are having a hard time finding or keeping a job. Counties have to help these families by giving them Family Stabilization Services (FSS).

What's good about FSS?

- You can get services to help your family become more stable.
- You can get a modified Employment Plan. The modified Plan might give you fewer work or work search hours and time to go to necessary appointments or therapy sessions.
- These services can help you stay out of sanction.

Who is eligible for FSS?

You are eligible for FSS if any of the following apply:

- You are applying for SSI or Social Security benefits because you are disabled. Get proof from Social Security.
- You are ill, injured, or disabled. This includes physical and mental illnesses. Get proof from a doctor that:
 - your illness, injury, or disability is going to last more than 30 days, and
 - it keeps you from working 20 or more hours per week.
- You are taking care of a seriously ill or disabled household member. Get proof from a doctor that:
 - the person is ill or disabled
 - the condition will last more than 30 days
 - you need to be home to take care of the person.
- There is a child or adult in your household who is eligible for special medical services. For example, you have a child who is severely emotionally disturbed or an adult with serious and persistent mental illness. Get proof from a doctor or therapist.
- You are a victim of family violence. See our fact sheet, MFIP and FSS for Family Violence Victims.
- You have been in the United States for fewer than 12 full months after the month of entry.
- You are age 60 or older.

- You have trouble reading or writing, you don't speak or understand English, you have problems with drugs or alcohol, or you have a criminal record, and a vocational expert says that you can't work 20 or more hours per week.
- You have a learning disability, or you have an IQ below 80 and a vocational expert says your disability limits the type of work you can do or that you can't work 20 or more hours per week.
- You have been getting MFIP for more than 60 months because you got an extension.

How do I get into FSS?

If you think you might be eligible for FSS, tell your job counselor. Your job counselor should tell you what to do next. If that doesn't work, talk to your job counselor's supervisor.

Do I need some type of written plan if I am in FSS?

You need to meet with a job counselor to make an FSS plan. An FSS plan should include activities you need to help your family. For example, it could include ESL or GED classes, medical appointments, looking for housing, etc. You should be able to get help with transportation and child care expenses to allow you to participate in your FSS activities.

Can I transfer to FSS if I am in sanction?

Many families in sanction should be in FSS. You do not have to get out of sanction to transfer to FSS.

Can I get my sanction lifted?

Many families can get out of sanction if they meet with their FSS counselor. It is also possible to get out of sanction for prior months if you have good cause. Good cause can be illness, lack of child care or transportation, an emergency, family violence, or some other reason that you were not able to follow your employment plan. If you think you have good cause, talk to your job counselor about it. If your job counselor doesn't agree, file an appeal.

What should I do if I ask to be in FSS and the job counselor says I'm not eligible?

- Talk to your job counselor's supervisor.
- You have the right to appeal the decision. See our fact sheet, Welfare Appeals to DHS.
- Call Legal Aid right away.
