

Immigration Fee Waivers

Many USCIS forms are changing! Check the USCIS website to make sure you are using the most current form before you submit anything to them. If you send the wrong form you might have to start over.

What is a fee waiver?

When you send an application to the immigration service, there is often a cost or fee that you have to pay for filing the application. In some cases, you can ask for a “fee waiver.” If the immigration service approves your application for a fee waiver, you don’t have to pay the filing fee. But even if your filing fee is waived, you may still have to pay an additional fee. Check the G-1055 fee schedule for the most up to date fees by visiting <https://www.uscis.gov/g-1055>.

Who can get a fee waiver?

To get a fee waiver you must fill out Form I-912, Request for a Fee Waiver. But you also have to show the immigration service that you can’t pay the filing fee. You need to prove at least 1 of these 3 things:

1. You get public benefits like subsidized housing, childcare assistance, energy assistance, EBT (food stamps), MFIP, SSI, or MA.
or
2. Your income is low based on the Federal Poverty Guidelines.
or
3. You have financial trouble like big bills, or you lost your job or house

Note: You can claim more than one of these reasons if you can prove all of them. But it can be easiest to get a fee waiver if you choose only one option. Showing proof you get public benefits is usually the easiest.

How do I prove I need a fee waiver?

Here are some ways that you can show you need a fee waiver:

- If you put down that you get public benefits, send a copy of a letter from the County or Social Security Administration saying you get benefits. The benefits need to be for you or your head of household. Not other household members or kids. The letter you send in should show that you are getting benefits now, so check the letter to make sure that it shows things like type of benefit, date granted, expiration date, and/or renewal date. Don’t use just a printout with codes on it that USCIS will not understand.

- If you put down that your income is low based on the Federal Poverty Guidelines, send a copy of your most recent tax return. If you didn't file a tax return or if your income or source of income changed since your last tax return, send copies of your paycheck stubs for at least the last month.
- If you put down that you have financial trouble, send proof. For example, copies of large bills, a letter from your job saying you were laid off, or proof you are losing your house. Also send copies of all your monthly bills.

Can I ask for a fee waiver for any application?

No, you can't use a fee waiver for all immigration applications.

You can use it for applications like:

- Form I-90 Application to Replace Permanent Resident Card
- Form I-765 Application for Employment Authorization (except for DACA)
- Form I-751 Petition to Remove Conditions on Residence
- Form N-400 Application for Naturalization (citizenship). Form N-400 lets some people pay a lower filing fee if they do not qualify for a fee waiver.
- Form N-600 Application for Certificate of Citizenship
- Form N-336 Request for Hearing on a Decision in Naturalization Procedures Under Section 336 of the Act (this is to appeal a denial of citizenship)
- Form I-485 Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status. This is the application for a green card. You can get a fee waiver for some cases, not all. For example: you can get a fee waiver if you are an asylee. Note: If you are or were a victim of abuse, are applying based on a U visa, T visa, VAWA, or Special immigrant Status, there is no longer a fee.
- Form I-290B Notice of Appeal or Motion. You can sometimes get a fee waiver for this form.

For more details and a full list of applications you can get a fee waiver for, go to: <https://www.uscis.gov/sites/default/files/document/forms/i-912instr.pdf>

In July 2025, a new law changed the fees for many applications. For some applications, the law requires a new, additional fee along with the filing fee. Even if you qualify for a waiver of the filing fee, you must pay the additional fee.

There is now a $100 fee for asylum applications. The fee can't be waived. Also, asylum applicants must pay an annual fee of $100 every year their applications remain pending.

Find out the filing fee and additional fee for any immigration form online at <https://uscis.gov/g-1055>.

How do I apply for a fee waiver?

To apply for a fee waiver, fill out Form I-912. Go to <https://www.uscis.gov/i-912>.

You can also get USCIS forms by calling the toll-free Forms Request Line at 1-800-870-3676.

- Fill out Form I-912 online and print it, OR
- Fill out a printed Form I-912 CAREFULLY by hand in black ink

Mail Form I-912. Attach proof of why you need a fee waiver to your completed application (I-90, N-400 etc). Do not mail them separately! Mail your application, your fee waiver request and your proof to the address given in the “Where to File” instructions of your immigration application or petition form.

If immigration approves your fee waiver, they send you a receipt notice with the filing amount listed as $0. The notice may also say, “fee waiver approval.”

What happens if they say I can’t get a fee waiver?

If immigration turns you down for a fee waiver, they send you a notice asking for more proof of why you can’t pay. They send your application back and all the papers you sent with it. You have 2 choices:

- 1) You can resend the fee waiver application with the information they asked for, along with the application and other papers, or
- 2) You can just send in your application along with the fee.

WARNING: Be very careful before sending an application to immigration. Sometimes if your application is denied you could be put in deportation proceedings. If you committed certain crimes, lied to the government, or other things, you could also be put in deportation proceedings. Remember: Immigration can look at ALL your records!

Filling Out Fee Waiver Form I-912

General Information

If something on the form does not apply to you write "N/A" (Not Applicable) in the space unless the instructions tell you to do something else. If the answer is none, write "None."

If you need more space for an answer, use the “additional information” section on the last page of the form or a separate sheet of paper. At the top of the sheet, write your name and Alien Registration Number (A-Number), if you have one. Also write both the section number and item number you are answering.

Part 1 - Basis for Your Request (Why you need a fee waiver)

Mark the choice that shows the reason you are asking for a fee waiver. You only need to choose one, but if more than one category applies to you, you can choose more than one. If you choose more than one, you have to send in documents for each one.

Choose 1 if you get public benefits (called “means-tested benefit” like MFIP, SSI, MA etc.) If your spouse, partner, or if you are a child and your parent gets benefits, you can also choose this one. You don’t qualify on this basis if only your children get public benefits. You have to send documents that prove you (or your spouse/partner) get benefits. A recent document from the county or the Social Security Administration that shows the benefit and amount you (or they) get each month is good proof. This proof must show your name and when the benefits expire or when you have to renew. Showing that you get public benefits is usually the easiest way to get a waiver so use this option if you get benefits.

Choose 2 if you don’t get public benefits but your household income is at or below 150% of the Federal Poverty Guidelines. You have to send your recent tax return to prove it. If you did not file a tax return or your income has changed, you can send paystubs or other proof.

Choose 3 if the other reasons don’t apply to you but you are having financial trouble because of things like medical expenses, not having a job, having been evicted or being homeless. You have to send documents that prove it. For example: copies of your medical bills, a letter from your job saying you were laid off, or proof you are losing your house. Only use this option if the other 2 options don’t apply to you. It is hard to get a fee waiver based on this option.

Part 2 - Information about You

Fill out information about you if you are the person who needs the fee waiver. If you have dependents that are part of your application, you give that information in Part 3.

If you have 2 last names, put both last names in the Family Name box.

For question 8 about marital status, marriages that are religious-only or cultural marriages that are not recognized by the government of your home country are not counted.

Part 3 – Applications and Petitions for Which You Are Requesting a Fee Waiver

If you are only asking for a fee waiver for one application for yourself, just fill out one line in the box with your information. If you are applying for your children or spouse at the same time and also want to waive the fee for their application, fill out one line in the box for each person who has an application. If your family member is not applying at the same time you are, you do not need to list them here.

For example, if you and your child are both applying to become permanent residents at the same time then you would fill out one line with your information and one line with your child's information in this box. The "total number of forms" at the bottom of the box should match the number of applications you are sending to immigration if you want to waive the fee for all the applications. You may send in more than one application type with one fee waiver request at the same time (for example, a Temporary Protected Status application, Work Authorization, and Fee Waiver can be filed at the same time).

Part 4 – Means-Tested Benefit

If you checked "1" in Part 1, asking for a fee waiver because you get public benefits (called "means-tested benefit" like MFIP, SSI, MA etc.) then you need to fill out this section.

If you did not check number "1" in Part 1, SKIP this section.

Fill out one line of the chart for each person who gets the benefit. When it is filled out, it might look like this:

Ami Ahmed	Self	Hennepin County	MA	03/28/2013	01/01/2017

Look at the letters you have from the agency that give you the benefit to find this information. You might need to ask your case worker for the information or for a paper showing your benefits.

You have to send documents that prove what benefits you get and how much they are. A recent document from the county or the Social Security Administration that shows the type of benefit and amount is good proof.

If you are only asking for a fee waiver because you receive benefits, then you can skip to Part 7.

Part 5 – Income at or Below 150 Percent of the Federal Poverty Guidelines

If you checked "B" in Part 1, asking for a fee waiver because of your low income then you need to fill out this section.

If you did not check number "B" in Part 1, SKIP this section.

These questions ask about how you earn money and who lives with you.

In question 2, "unemployment benefits" means a check from the State that you get. For unemployment, you also usually have to visit a job center and meet with a counselor. If you don't have a job but are not getting any money or meeting with a counselor, then choose "no."

For question 3, include yourself, your spouse (if they live with you) children who live with you (if under 21 and unmarried or fulltime students under 24 and unmarried), your parents if they live with you, and other dependents listed on your tax return. If you are not the head of household, include the head of household (the person who has listed you as a dependent on a tax return or who makes the most income). Look at the form instructions or talk with a lawyer if you are not sure who to include in this response.

Question 7 asks for income for all family members counted as part of your household.

You have to send your recent tax return and sometimes paystubs that show your income. If there have been changes since you filed your taxes, tell them. Changes might be things like: you lost your job, you got a new job making less money, you had another child, you got divorced, you got married, you got a job making more money. Write what happened in the blank under question 9.

Check that you qualify for the fee waiver once you've totaled up your income. To check it with the Federal Poverty Guidelines, go to: <https://www.uscis.gov/forms/filing-fees/poverty-guidelines>. Click on the link that says I-912P. Look at the income for the number of people in your household and compare it to your number. If your number is higher, then you might not get the fee waiver. You might need to add information about financial hardship, and check "3" in Part 1.

If you are only asking for a fee waiver because you have a low income, then you can skip to Part 7.

Part 6 – Financial Hardship

If you checked "3" in Part 1, asking for a fee waiver because of your low income then you need to fill out this section. If you did not check number "3" in Part 1, SKIP this section.

Write about what is happening that makes it hard to have money for things like an application fee. Write about how the hardship has cost you money and what the costs are. An example would be if you had a family medical issue and have big bills to pay. Or if your boss cut your hours or you lost your job, explain what happened and how much income you have lost. If you need more space, use the space on page 11.

For question 3, put the total of your monthly expenses in the box. Check a box next to each of the things you pay for each month that is included in that total amount. You have to send documents that prove it. Include copies of your lease showing your rent, your other bills showing how much you pay, copies of large bills, a letter from your job saying you were laid off, or proof you are losing your house.

This option is normally reserved for people with more than 150% income level but who are facing recent financial hardship. If you choose this reason, it is important to show you are not meeting your monthly financial needs because of the hardship.

Part 7 – Requestor’s Statement

In this section, “Requestor” means you. If an interpreter helped you understand this form, then you need check box “B” in question 1. The interpreter also needs to fill out Part 8.

If someone else filled the form out for you, fill their name in question 2 and they need to fill out Part 9.

After you read the release, sign, and date Form I-912. When you sign, you are promising that the information in the application and the other documents is true. Your signature also gives USCIS permission to get information on you from other agencies if they need it to help decide if you are eligible. This includes copies of your federal tax returns.

Each person applying for a fee waiver must sign and date Form I-912.

- If a child is 14 years old or older, the child must sign and date the form.
- If a child is less than 14 years old, the parent or legal guardian may sign and date for the child. To do this, sign the form then write your relationship to the child near your name.
- If a person can’t take care of paperwork because of a disability, a legal guardian can sign and date the form. Include court documents showing proof of the guardianship.

Part 8 – Interpreter’s Information

If an interpreter helped you or one of your family members fill out this form, they need to fill out and sign in Part 9. If you did not use an interpreter to help you, you do not need to fill out this part.

Part 9 – Preparer’s Information

A preparer is anyone other than you who filled out this form. It includes a lawyer, but could also be a friend, a relative, a social worker, or anybody who wrote the information in the form for you. If someone else helped you fill out the form, they need to fill out this part. If you wrote everything in yourself, then you do not need to fill out this part.

Mail Form I-912 with proof of why you need a fee waiver and your application. Do not mail them separately! Mail it to the address given in the “Where to File” instructions of your immigration application or petition form.
